RECREATION, WORKSHOPS HIGHLIGHT UM SUMMER SESSION OFFERINGS

MISSOULA--

Family outings, special seminars and visiting speakers will brighten the usual curricula during the 1968 Summer Session at the University of Montana.

According to Dr. Walter Schwank, director of the summer session, there will be more emphasis this year on recreational possibilities in the Missoula area than ever before.

A ghost town visitation, a backpack hike into the nearby Mission Mountains, a four-day trip through Glacier Park, a two-day jaunt to Yellowstone Park, several three-day pack trips into the Bob Marshall wilderness and a family camping and outdoor recreation workshop are all scheduled as parts of the summer recreation program at UM.

Special workshops in business education, family life education, drug usage education, a three-week music and art tour of Europe, an opera workshop, a drama and theater workshop and a seminar in field geology for natural science teachers will be offered in addition to departmental offerings.

More than 30 visiting lecturers will be teaching special seminars, workshops and institutes during the session. Richard C. Hottelet, a CRS News correspondent, and Drew Pearson, syndicated columnist, will speak during the summer.

No out-of-state fees are charged during the summer, and Dr. Schwank said he anticipates about 2,500 students this summer. Last summer a record 2,319 students attended.
